HILLTOPPERSHAVE A DAY OF REST

Coach Nielsen Gives Regulars Afternoon Off.

LIGHT PRACTICE FOR TO-DAY

Georgetown Football Warriors Are Stiff from Fierce Battle with the Army Eleven and Do Not Work Out on the Hilltop-Regulars to Play Mount St. Mary's.

As there was less than half the regulars Set there was less than that the regularies back from New York yesterday at Georgetown, football practice for the day was dispensed with, and the men were siven a well-carned rest.

Coach Nielsen gave the majority of the toach Nielsen gave the majority of the men permission is remain over in New York until Monday, as their homes are near by, and they took advantage of the offer to see their folks. The poor condi-tion of the field caused the calling off of practice for the remainder of the squad. Nothing but the lightest kind of prac-tics will be the action for the afternoon tice will be the order for this afternoon on the Hilltop, as Coach Nielsen does not on the Hilton, as Coach Nielsen does not wish to take a chance of injury to any of the men at this stage of the season. In the game Saturday against Mount St. Mary's eleven, the fast team that is coached by Mike Thompson, a former graduate manager of athletics at Georgetown, Coach Nielsen will start the regular team, as he has a great deal of respect for the speedy little aggregation that scored on the Carlisle Indians. Coach Nielsen, who is very conserva-

Coach Nielsen, who is very conserva-live, to say the least, stated after the first half of the game with the Army eleven last Saturday that Georgetown would win. This is the first time that Nellsen has ever been known to make a prediction before the game.

Scholastic Teams Will Play.

Contrary to the general expectations, the high school game: will be played next week. Conch Nielsen giving the high school board of athletic directors permission to use the field, and starting the practice of the Blue and Gray eleven on

This is a very generous move on the part of the Georgelows coach, as, with the big game with Virginia on Saturday, secret practice will most likely be in order for the majority of days next week, and the use of the big griding most essential to him.

The Hilltoppers are more confident than ever of repeating last year's victory over the Orange and Blue eleven, owing to the great showing made against Army, when they really won a declaive victory over the lads at Uncle Sam's Military Academy.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

Amberst is soon to hold a cross-country run. As yet the date has not been an-nounced. A number of men are already training for the event.

The faculty at Leiand Stanford has de-cided to have lecture courses given on Bugby football, the collegiate game. Students taking this course will be given one unit of credit toward their bache-lor's degree. It can also be substituted for the regular gymnastic work. Foot-ball conches will be the professors. Be-sides those enrolled in the lecture course those who engage in the game on the field will also be given a unit of credit.

Coach Frank Quimby, of the Yale base "We shall demand this year strict dis-"We shall demand this year strict dis-cipline, strict training; will promise hard work and the development of the team to be self-reliant and to think for them-selves. We are going to train the nine to fight to the finish and play better than they know how in the hig sames. "This is the kind of ball team Yale wants and badly needs. We believe it can be developed and the foundations had for future teams to build upon."

James Thorpe, the Cartisle Indian James Thorpe, the Cartiale Indian School football player, is an all-around athlete. The member of the Sac and Fox tribe, who came to Cartiale in 1988, and little or no knowledge of athletics when he first entered the school. Thorpe is twenty-two years old, six feet tall, and is powerfully put together. Coach Glen Warner immediately recognized the possible athletic ability in him. With careful training Warner has developed Thorpe into a versatile oil door performer. Thorpe goes in for all kinds of sports and performs creditably in each line.
